Annex 2B - Financial implications of implementation of recommendations - UNDP

UNDP's proposed reclassifications of costs have no impact on the overall integrated resources framework, and merely reflect a movement of respective activities to the appropriate cost categories together with the respective resources within the existing integrated resources plan/integrated budget amounts. It is important to note that these proposed reclassifications do not reduce the level of core resources available for programmes.

The proposed reclassifications would result in a reclassification of $199m out of the management category into other categories, as follows:

- $112m for the Corporate oversight and assurance moves to a separate cost classification line item;
- $10m for MOSS investments moves to the Capital investments category within the Special purpose category;
- $2m for HACT moves to the Development Effectiveness category;
- $75m for operational support to projects at the country level with a direct link to projects and programmes moves to the Programme category. This includes functions such as travel support, logistics, procurement, finance & human resource support to those projects and programmes.

In addition, UNDP proposes a reclassification of $73m for the overall programmatic support at the country level from the Development Effectiveness category to the Programme category. This includes functions such as programme policy advisory services, supervision and communication of project activities.

As before, these functions will continue to be funded both from Regular and Other resources, as detailed in the table on the next page.
